short stories, the most interesting sketches of travel and discovery, the best poetry, and the most valuable biographical, historical, scientific and political information from the entire body of foreign current literature, and from the pens of the ablest writers of the day. As periodicals become more numerous, this one becomes the more valuable. It fills the place of many quarterlies, monthlies and weeklies; and its readers can through its pages easily and economically keep. ts pages easily and economically keep acc with the work of the foremost writers pace with the work of the foremost writers in all departments of literature, science, politics and art. Its importance to American readers is evident. The subscription price ($8.00 per year) is cheap for the amount of reading furnished, while the publishers make a still cheaper offer, viz. to send The Living Age and any one of the American $4.00 monthlies or weeklies, a year, both postpaid, for $10.50; thus furnishing to the subscriber at small cost the cream of both home and foreign literature. Vo'umes XXI and XXII, of Scribner's Magazine, include the monthly issues of that admirable periodical from November, 1880, to October, 1881. In these two handsome volumes may be said to be comprehended an epitome of the best thought of the time. They are a little library in themselves. Some of the best scrial novels, the best short stories and sketches, and the most delightful bits of verse that have appeared in this country during the year, are in these attractive covers. A list of contributors would simply be a list of the best mames familiar to students of the literature of the day. How great a service to the cause of American development in art and literature, a wise and patient festoring of hidden and unknown power, has been rendered by the editorial control of this magazine, it is impossible to estimate; but it is a very great provise. Looking through the two volumes that are now given to the public in substantial form, one sees the names of are

William J. Coughlin, of Somerville, Mass says: In the fall of 1876 I was taken with bleeding of the lungs, followed by a severe cough. I lost my appetite and flesh, and was confined to my bed. In 1877 I was admitted to the Hospital. The doctorsasid I had a hole in my lungs as big as a half dollar. At one time a report went around that I was dead. I gave up hope, but a friend told me of Dr. William Hall's Balsam for the Lungs. I got a bottle, when to my surprise, I commenced to feel better, and to-day I feel better than for three years past.

"I write this hoping every one afflicted with Diseased Lungs will take Dr. William Hall's Balsam, and be convinced that consumption can be cured. I can positively say it has done more good than all the other medicines I have taken since my sickness.
